

Why Food Stops Tasting Right

The Overlooked Cause of Weight Loss, Frailty, & Disengagement

Why This is a Big Deal

Up to 30% of seniors experience diminished taste & smell, directly impacting nutrition.

When food loses appeal...

- Eating becomes a chore.
- Portions shrink.
- Weight drops.
- Energy declines.
- Fall risk increases.

What Families Will Hear:

"I'm just not that hungry anymore."

What's Actually Happening

They're just not enjoying food anymore.

Re-Engaging Appetite: Practical Ways to Make Food Appealing Again

BEFORE

Why it gets ignored...

Bland flavors
Nothing stands out

Limited color
Less visual appeal

Large portions can feel overwhelming

Same routine becomes boring

Less interest. Less appetite. Less nutrition.

AFTER

Small changes. Big difference.

Bold flavors
use herbs, citrus,
and spices

Bright colors make food more inviting

Right-sized portions reduce overwhelm

More variety keeps meals interesting

More interest. Better intake. Improved well-being.

QUICK WAYS TO RE-ENGAGE APPETITE

TURN UP FLAVOR

Use herbs, garlic, citrus & spices instead of extra salt.

FOCUS ON TEXTURE

Add a mix of soft and crunchy food to stimulate interest.

MAKE IT SOCIAL

Eating together encourages more enjoyment & intake.

MAKE IT VISUALLY APPEALING

Bright colors and good presentation stimulate appetite.

Meal Support with Home Care

If eating habits have changed, even slightly, a professional caregiver can help reignite appetite and prevent nutritional decline at home. It's worth a conversation. Call Today!

Serving the Greater Austin Area

512-999-7379

License # 017603